

Thanksgiving Dining Out

PrintEmail

On Thanksgiving Day, you're technically supposed to give thanks for the people in our lives and the food on our table. In America, that translates to overeating, excessive drinking and lots of leftover turkey. It also translates a lot of cooking. If you can't bare the thought of cooking this year, some of the city's best restaurants are offering to take on the daunting task for you. Thinking of dining out on Thanksgiving, there are lots of good options...

If you're dining out this Thanksgiving, it doesn't get much better than Market Table. Or homier for that matter. It's hard to please everyone, but Mikey Price & Joey Campanaro have put together a menu that just might. We took at a quick look at the menu to find a duck and kale soup appetizer, roast turkey with braised leg roulade, and fig and cornbread stuffing. Not a meat eater, there's also halibut with a root vegetable risotto. But as far as dessert is concerned, there's no question: pumpkin pudding topped with gingersnaps and spiced cream.
